EDUCATION

- PhD Natural Resources, Cornell University (expected 2011)
Committee: Drs. Marianne Krasny (Chair), Scott Peters, Mark Bain, and Richard Stedman
Dissertation: “The Impact of Civic Ecology Education on Sense of Place in Youth”
- MS Natural Resources, Cornell University (2006)
Committee: Dr. Marianne Krasny (Chair), and Dr. Joseph Walther
Thesis: “Use of Computer Technologies in Dissemination of Environmental Education Programs”
- BS Environmental Management, Tomsk State University, Siberia (2001)
Major: Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, Honors Diploma

RESEARCH INTERESTS

I am conducting interdisciplinary research about the impact of civic ecology education programs in the Bronx, New York City, on sense of place in youth. My interests include urban environmental education, community-based environmental restoration, urban social-ecological systems, sense of place, and ecosystem services.

SELECTED COURSEWORK

Research Methods: Qualitative Research Methods, Participatory Action Research, Quantitative Research Methods, Structural Equation Modeling.

Social Dimension: Environmental Strategies, Agriculture/Extension in Developing Countries, Community Education and Development, Pedagogy, Comparative Epistemologies.

Science Dimension: Ecology, Urban Ecology, Agricultural Ecology, Natural Resources, Plant Ecology, Botany, Zoology, Chemistry, Environmental Conservation.

TEACHING EXPERIENCE

Teaching Assistant (Spring 2009) “Society and Natural Resources” course with Dr. Stedman, Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University

- Graded student exams, place journals and other assignments, hold office hours
- Developed and delivered two lectures

Teaching Assistant (Fall 2008) “International Conservation: Communities and the Management of the World’s Natural Resources” course with Dr. Lassoie, Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University

- Designed different tools to evaluate student performance, which accommodated different learning styles
- Graded research papers, held office hours

Teaching Assistant (Spring 2008) “Environmental Conservation” course with Dr. Fahey, Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University

- Developed the curriculum and materials for and conducted weekly discussion section
- Organized field trips and co-organized an environmental exhibition at the Johnson Museum of Art
- Graded research papers

Teaching Assistant (Fall 2008) “Forest Ecology” with Dr. Fahey, Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University

- Graded student research reports, exams, and homework
- Coordinated weekend field trips to forests to Adirondacks Park in NY and White Mountains in NH

Teaching Assistant (Spring 2007) “Environmental Governance” course with Dr. Wolf, Department of Natural Resources, Cornell University

- Developed a plan and conducted weekly discussion sections with undergraduate students
- Held office hours and graded students’ weekly writing assignments

Instructor (2002–2004) “Methods of Environmental Education” course at Tomsk State University, Russia

- Developed the curriculum for this course and delivered lectures
